A new section has been added under "Game Scores and Items" menu. It's dedicated to our new second life in game servers. It's something we got out of the box while designing our next product family, born by the need of providing full updates to our new generation products. Servers are not on sell right now, we still need a little testing, but we're probably going to lunch our first update server TK-101 in a couple of weeks. Stay tuned.
