

What's happening behind the scenes?

Written by Teclo Flow

Sunday, 11 October 2009 21:51 -

---

Some weeks have passed without any news from our team. We're not sleeping but we're working hard on our next project. We don't want to let you know much but that's a very big project involving all our stuff. We are currently working on three different items, they will be released all together and will be something different from everything out in second life. The core of this project will be free of charge. In our plans we're going to release all the new stuff around Christmas, possibly some testing will be arranged in the second week of November.

Stay tuned.